Radio Times programme notes:

"Mark Burrows stars as the wooden puppet with the tricky nose in the Playhouse dramatisation of Carlo Collodi's classic Italian tale. He is joined by Stephen Moore as Geppetto, the toymaker who creates the cheeky puppet who yearns to become a real boy. Pinocchio sets out to realise his ambition, saddled by a nose that grows alarmingly whenever he tells one of his frequent lies. But, of course, it all ends happily!"

"Mark Burrows makes his professional debut at the age of 13 in the role of the wooden puppet who comes alive (and whose nose just grows and grows when he tells a lie)."
