Not to be confused with Leif Erickson, whose chief claim to fame was as the patriarch of TV's "High Chaparral". Lee played Charley, one of vaudeville star Bob Hope's all-singing all-dancing kids, in "THE SEVEN LITTLE FOYS". Nothing else is known of him. He's not listed in The Moving Picture Boy.

A little public acclaim can easily go to the head of a young performer – as it did with Douglas Croft as the boy George M Cohan in "YANKEE DOODLE DANDY" – and in both films the remedy is quickly addressed to the performer's other end. Elder brother Billy Gray looks on, doubtless remembering similar dustings of yore.
