The Moving Picture Boy entry:

“To quote the Czech catalogue of children’s films, on Herman Zschoche’s heartwarming "IGELFREUNDSCHAFT": "Heiner lives near the Czechoslovak frontier. Using a wooden pipe which he has carved himself, he lures a little hedgehog to him. The animal has a ring on its foot which means that it belongs to somebody. Yet Heiner doesn’t want to give it back and hides it. One day he is invited to visit a village on the other side of the frontier. There he meets a girl called Jana, and discovers that she has lost a pet hedgehog. He says nothing. But when the Czech children send their favourite rabbit as a gift to the German pioneers, Heiner has a twinge of conscience. In an adventurous way, he returns the hedgehog to Jana." For all lovers of adventure, hedgehogs and the prickles of conscience, "IGELFREUNDSCHAFT" is a must.”
