Variety International Film Guide 2000 review:

"Kukunoor's second feature (after "HYDERABAD BLUES") deals with 13-year old Rajesh, who leaves home for a new life as a boarder at Rockford, the sequestered and selective Roman Catholic public boys' school in South India. He experiences joys, fears, awakening sexuality and the inevitable legacy of British colonial life in India."

No further information currently available. An English-language Indian production, which ought to make it transport easily to the UK, but I've seen no mention of it elsewhere to date. If the reviewer is related to the cast member of the same name, she makes no mention of it. A very similar institution, St Xavier's, featured briefly in Dean Stockwell's "KIM" (50). Nothing else is known of Rohan Dey.
